Dear Colonel Grogan:

I wish to express the gratitude of the officers and staff of the National Civil Service League for your splendid cooperation in helping to promote attendance at our ninth Career Service Awards dinner. The response from the Central Intelligence Agency was gratifying, and contributed significantly to the recognition of Arthur Lundahl.

From our own point of view, and judging from the enthusiastic comments from a host of those who were present, our 1963 dinner was a memorable occasion with a record attendance and a roster of distinguished guests. We hope you and Mrs. Grogan had a pleasant evening.

Sincerely,

James R. Watson

Dear General Carter:

On behalf of the Officers and Directors of the National Civil Service League, I want to express our sincere appreciation to you for your presence and participation in our ninth annual Career Service Awards dinner. Your presentation of Arthur C. Lundahl added significantly to the importance and prestige of his recognition as an outstanding public servant.

This annual program which the League inaugurated to bring honor and prestige to the public service has achieved a steadily growing importance. From our own point of view and judging from the enthusiastic comments of a host of those who were present, our 1963 program was a truly memorable occasion, with a record attendance and an impressive roster of distinguished guests.

We hope you experienced a pleasant evening, and trust we shall have the pleasure of having you with us again next year.

Sincerely,

James R. Watson

1963 CAREER SERVICE AWARD WINNER

STATINT LUNDAHL, ARTHUR CHARLES - - - Assistant Director for Photographic Intelligence, Central Intelligence Agency

Education: 1934-42 University of Chicago
1948 Eidgen Techn Hochschule, Zurich, Switzerland
1962 Brookings Institute, Washington, D.C.

Mr. Lundahl has been considered as the top photographic intelligence officer in the United States Government and, as such, he has been involved in the most important photographic problems affecting national security, including the Cuban crisis.

During World War II he served in the Navy's Photographic Intelligence Center, and is given great credit for the new and unique types of photography upon which our current intelligence efforts are so dependent. He has been called upon to deliver critically important briefings to senior policy officials concerned with the national security. His duties extend to obtaining the cooperation of all branches of the Government involved in the exploitation of photography for intelligence purposes.

He is active in professional, civic and community activities.

In nominating him, CIA Director, John A. McCone, stated:

"Mr. Lundahl has made major contributions to the science of photographic intelligence and has had a leading role in the development of an interagency photographic intelligence organization which is credited with accomplishments of great national significance."

AWARDS TO 10 CAREERISTS

Man Who Unmasked Cuba Missiles Named

The man who first discovered the Soviet missile build-up in Cuba today was selected by the National Civil Service League as one of its 10 Career Service Award winners for 1963.

He is Arthur C. Lundahl, 47, assistant director of Central Intelligence for photographic interpretation.

Mr. Lundahl's office first received the famous U-2 photos taken over Cuba on October 14. Late that night, he and his staff came to a definite determination that the Soviet Union was installing ballistic missiles on the island. He informed John A. McCone, director of Central Intelligence, who was out of town, and Mr. McCone's deputy and the Cuban crisis was on.

The service awards are made each year to 10 career workers who make outstanding contributions to the Federal Government. The league is the only organization of private citizens devoted entirely to improving the Federal career civil service. The league was founded in 1881.

20 Years With Government

Mr. Lundahl is a graduate of the University of Chicago and has 20 years Government service, in uniform and out. During World War II he served in the Navy and in 1945 became associated with the Navy Photographic Interpretation Center at Anacostia. He was chief of the PIC photogrammetry division and assistant chief engineer until 1953, when he moved to CIA.

The photo interpretation expert recently was selected for promotion to captain in the United States Naval Reserve. He lives at 4410 Chestnut street, Bethesda, Md., with his wife and two children, Ann Christine, 15, and Robert Dana, 10.

Mr. Lundahl and the other winners will be honored at a dinner at the Sheraton-Park Hotel on March 26. The others are:

Graeme C. Bannerman, 53, deputy assistant secretary of Assistant Secretary of Defense (Procurement). He was born in Washington and is charged with supervising annual defense procurement amounting to $25 billion. His home is at 3506 T street N.W.

Heads Maritime Region

Capt. Hewlett R. Bishop, 54, Atlantic Coast director, Maritime Administration, Department of Commerce. A native of Long Island, N. Y., he is in charge of the largest field division of the Maritime Administration. He lives at Freeport, N. Y.

August C. Hahn, 55, Deputy Assistant Postmaster General, is a native of Beaumont, Tex., who now lives at 1368 Fourth street N.W. He has risen through the ranks from letter carrier to his present position.

Dr. Gregory K. Hartmann, 51, technical director, United States Naval Ordnance Laboratory, was educated in his native Buffalo, N. Y., at the California Institute of Technology and Oxford. He is an expert in the field of weapons technologies. He lives at 10701 Keswick street, Garrett Park, Md.

Nicholas J. Oganovic, 50, Deputy Executive Director of the United States Civil Service Commission, is a native of Chisholm, Minn., and now lives at 2521 North Quebec street, Arlington, Va. He is presently responsible for improvements in Civil Service and directs the college recruitment program.

Public Health Aide

Dr. Hildrus A. Poindexter, 61, chief public health adviser for the Agency for International Development, is also a native of Washington. He has served all over the world in training persons for public health jobs in underdeveloped nations. His home is at 513 Twenty-third place N.E.

James J. Rowley, 50, Chief of the United States Secret Service, Treasury Department, is a native of New York City. For 15 years he was charged with the protection of three Presidents. He is now in charge of the entire Secret Service. His home is at 3501 Rittenhouse street N.W.

Frank A. Taylor, 60, director of the United States National Museum, Smithsonian Institution, is another native of Washington. He is a lifetime employee of the Smithsonian and is now director of the National Museum, the largest museum in the world. He lives at 6606 Thirty-second street N.W.

William E. Weathersby, 48, country public affairs officer, India, United States Information Service. He was born in Memphis, Tenn., and unlike most of the other winners, he did not enter the career service in his youth. He is now working in what the agency director terms the agency's "hardest and most important operations abroad." He lives at Hattiesburg, Miss.
